CROSS-COUNTY ELECTRIC RAILWAYS CONTEMPLATED

Monongahela-Washington Company Seeks County Seat Franchise

OUTLINES ITS PLANS

Proposes Through Line From Bentleyville, and Incidentally, From Monongahela

That the Monongahela-Washington Street Railway company means business in its efforts to establish electric railway connections between the Monongahela valley and the county seat, was evidenced Monday night when the company presented an ordinance to Washington borough council asking for a franchise over certain of the streets there. According to the proposed plans, a line is to be constructed in that borough to connect with a line to be built from this valley to Washington. Bentleyville, it seems would be sort of a junction point. The company's plans are to the effect that a line would be built up the Pigeon Creek valley from Monongahela to Bentleyville and thence across the county to Washington.

Following out the rules the ordinance was merely presented to the Washington council, read and turned over to the finance committee The franchise ordinance calls for the right to lay tracks, place poles and string wires over certain designated streets.

Counsel for the company argued eloquently for the passage of the ordinance. He declared that the line, covering the route proposed, would be a feeder for Washington that would open up a rich territory and benefit 25,000 people.

This is the first real attempt of the Monongahela-Washington Street Railway company to get through at the county seat. At one time the West Penn Traction company attempted to secure a franchise, but failed on technical points that arose over the location of the tracks on East Beau and Wheeling streets.

Attorneys Will Seek New Trial

Plans Laid For Asking Re-Opening of Case Against Walter Thomas

It was definitely decided by the attorneys who defended Walter Thomas in the murder trial at Waynesburg that came to a close Saturday night, at a meeting held Monday that they would present a motion for a new trial.

Not one of the attorneys would give the slightest intimation as to what reasons would be given in asking that the mysterious murder of Mrs Josephine Price at Rices Landing, be gone over again or what day the appeal would be made.

It is rumored that several of the reasons for demanding a new trial will be of a rather unusual and startling nature.

The attorneys still have three days in which to file their motion before Judge Inghram.

The conference of the defendant's counsellors Monday was attended by Mrs. Frances Alron of Pittsburg mother of Walter Thomas. She returned to Pittsburg in the evening.

CLARK NAMED CHAIRMAN BY COUNTY REPUBLICANS

Washington Attorney Unanimously Given Important Place

ENTHUSIASM MANIFEST

Rousing Addresses Made by Candidates---Newly Elected Chairman Speaks

In a meeting that was characterized by enthusiasm and harmony, the Republican county committee on Monday elected Attorney Norman E. Clark of Washington the county chairman for the ensuing two years. The meeting which was held in the public meeting rooms of the court house was attended by 74 members of the committee from all parts of the county.

The meeting was featured by a rousing address delivered by ex-Lieut. Governor William K. Brown of New Castle, who is a candidate for congress from the Twenty-fourth district, embracing Washington, Beaver and Lawrence counties Chairman Clark also made a rousing talk to the committeemen and Attorney Russel Myers, who is a candidate for the legislature, spoke briefly.

In the absence of the retiring chairman, A. M. Linn, Secretary Alvan E. Donnan presided. He called for nominations for temporary chairman and William K. Vance of Monongahela, was elected Mr. Vance took the chair and O. Evans Mikesell was elected temporary secretary. R. J. McCleary of West Finley, and T. C. Luellen, of Beallsville were named tally clerks.

Mr. Allison in presenting the name of Mr. Clark declared that he was a man who had been identified with the Republican party all of his life and came from a family which has been identified with the party since its birth. Mr. Clark's name was enthusiastically applauded and he received the unanimous vote of the convention.

Chairman Vance named a committee composed of W. B. Culley of Burgetts town; John H. Bowers of Charleroi and R. M. Allison of East Washington, to notify Mr. Clark of his selection. The committee found Mr. Clark at his office and conducted him to the meeting room, where his appearance was greeted with prolonged applause.

He declared that the Republican party has always been the party to progress and has always stood for human rights. Its record of efficient service to county, state and nation is one to be proud of.

"The Republican party," he stated, "has always stood for positive constructive principles as opposed to destructive principles. Through the principles of the protective tariff this nation became the most prosperous in the world."

Mr. Clark called attention to the fact that the protective tariff had made possible Washington county's prosperous wool business and that free trade has shattered that branch of agricultural endeavor. He declared that the promises of the Demo-

SAFETY ON THE FOURTH

"Noise is not patriotism. That is the point made by State Fire Marshal J. L. Baldwin in a circular that he is sending out over the state advising a safe and sane observance of the Fourth of July. That it is better to plan for the saving of life and property before loss occurs than afterwards is a point he takes.

"Instead of a day of gladness and rejoicing the Fourth of July has developed into a day of dread," says Fire Marshal Baldwin in his intelligent exposition of the matter of proper observance of the Fourth.

"It is not generally realized the great loss of life and property occurring every year caused by fire works," continues Fire Marshal Baldwin. "A few years ago two-thirds of the city of Portland, Maine, was burned, caused by the careless handling of fire crackers. From the same cause Pittsburg lost $50,000 worth of property in one day and in eight years the fire loss in the United States as a result of the careless handling of fire works amounted to over $2,500.000.

"Public sentiment today is in favor of a safe and sane Fourth of July. This should be encouraged. Where Fourth of July celebrations have been tried without the promiscuous use of fire works it has been found most satisfactory as no accidents from gun powder occurred and no fires from explosion reported. Whenever tried the experiment has shown that the new Independence Day celebration has not been necessarily a dull Fourth of July, but, that there are far better ways of teaching the youth of the country to remember the Declaration of Independence than by making loud noises.

"There are in all communities persons disposed to obstinacy and unreasonably persist in doing things contrary to the wishes of the majority. Such persons often cause trouble and may do so on the Fourth of July by the careless handling of fire works, which may result in injury or death of [illegible] or the destruction of property.

"Householders should be on guard against such persons, by being prepared for emergencies. Keep buckets filled with water and place them handy for immediate use.

"Members of fire departments should be interested and lend aid for a safe and sane Fourth of July. Usually this is one of the busiest days of the year and is seldom passed without injury or death occurring to some member. Be safe. Be sane and advise and help others to be. Remember that merriment is better than mourning."

FIGHTING TO THE DEATH.

The bull moose party is going to its death through internal strife. The Pinchot brothers, Amos and Gifford, the latter the squatter candidate for United States senator in Pennsylvania, are engaged in a deadly battle with George W. Perkins, chairman of the moose executive committee of the nation. Col. Roosevelt when he returns from Spain must decide whether he will go along with the Pinchots or continue to go along with Mr. Perkins, the financial angel of the party. It is confidently expected that the good Colonel will continue his devotion to Mr. Perkins, and upon that rock the bullmoosers will be everlastingly and hopelessly split. The Pinchot estimate of Mr. Perkins is herewith given:

"To talk against monopoly, to place the words 'social and industrial justice' upon our banner and then to hand over this banner to a man who has been monopoly's ardent supporter and one of the most distinguished opponents of social and industrial justice that our generation has produced, is in my opinion a handicap to the party and a fraud on the public. It is also highly and destructively ridiculous."

That's what Amos Pinchot says of Mr. Perkins and surely that's what he thinks of him.

But those Pinchot boys will just insist upon believing that the bull moose party was organized, financed and promoted for the exclusive purpose of giving offices to those who were able to attach themselves to Col. Roosevelt's coat tails. An unfortunate delusion, that Mr. Perkins and a few others organized promoted and handsomely financed the bull moose oragnization for the one and exclusive purpose of defeating William Howard Taft for re-election to the Presidency. That purpose having been served, party decay follows naturally. Real organizations do not feed on spite and revenge.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Never again will I accuse a woman of vanity—especially if there is the least possible chance of a comeback," emphatically declared a Charleroi man the other evening. He proceeded to relate an instance explaining his reason.

"The other day I caught my seven-year old daughter standing in front of the mirror primping and fussing with her hair," he said. "I had seen her at this sort of thing before and to me it did not look exactly becoming.

"'Don't do that,' I instructed her. 'You musn't look in the morror. Anybody who does is a fool.'

"The next evening I was busy combing my hair in front of a mirror when the tot appeared. She watched me a moment and then smiled wickedly. Bolting for the door she hurled back:

"'Fool, fool! fool!' There I was convicted by my own words.'

A man went into a McKean avenue bakery the other day and asked a young man whom he beheld behind the counter, for pies.

"What kind have you," he asked.

"Round pies, you dub," responded the clerk.

The next day the man again entered the bakery and said quietly: "I wish some pies, please."

"What kind?" interrogated the young man in charge.

"Round ones, you dub," he said and walked out.

Judging from evidences of William Lorimer, banking on politics is about the same thing as politics on banking.

Its an ill wind that blows nobody goood. A train was wrecked in New York, three killed, forty others injured and thousands of dollars worth of valuable property destroyed. Then a man who suffered only a spoiled suit in extricating himself from the debris found a four-leaf clover.

Girls who object to "settling down" because they might have to wash dishes and cook just as likely as not when they reach 30 will wonder when they are going to have a chance.

In the winter of 1904 I had cough night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful-looking stuff and later I had many hemorrhages; at one time three in three successive days. Milk and eggs became so distasteful I could keep nothing down. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alterative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well."

PUT BAN ON "MOSQUITOES"

This Story Should Convince Skeptics as to Size and Ferocity of the New Jersey Species.

A struggling young artist in New York who, last summer, felt ill and despondent, decided that if he were to accomplish anything during the coming winter, he must have a vacation in the country. Accordingly, he repaired to a New Jersey resort in the hope of being able to obtain reduced rates.

"Well," said the old chap, who ran the place, "I can't see why I should take you for less money than the others; but I tell you what I'll do You paint me a nice, fancy picture of the hotel and grounds, and I'll give you a month's board."

The young artist set cheerfully about the task. In a short while he submitted for his host's approval a highly idealized picture of the little house and its grounds. To one of the outbuildings he had added a dovecote, round which several birds, which the discerning eye might have seen were doves, were hovering.

The landlord didn't think much of this effort. "The picture as a whole," said he, "ain't half bad, but I can't stand for these mosquitoes. You must paint them out, or the bargain's off. They're calculated to scare folks off instead of attraction' them here."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

SPECIAL ROPE FOR CLIMBERS

Those Used in the Alps Are Selected for Strength, Reliability and Lightness.

The rope used by Alpine climbers is of special manufacture, combining as far as possible the different qualities of strength, flexibility and lightness.

Three qualities are in general use being made from sisal, Italian and Manila hemps respectively, and occasionally, when cost is not a consideration, of silk. The latter, though very light and strong, is not so durable as the others. That which finds most favor among British mountaineers is known as Buckingham's Alpine rope. It is made of the best Manila hemp.

In the year 1864 a committee of the Alpine club made tests upon a number of ropes suitable for mountaineering. Of the two that were approved one was made of Italian hemp and the other of Manila. They both had a breaking strain of two tons and sustained the weight of a 170-pound man after falling from a height of ten feet.

Non-mountaineers have sometimes considered this insufficient, but it is highly problematical whether the human anatomy could survive the sudden compression of a thin rope arising from any greater fall.—Fry's Magazine.

False Teeth an Italian Invention.

No doubt the statement of a firm of manufacturers that they sell over 12,000,000 false teeth a year, is well founded, since everyone uses them these days. It seems, however, to recall to memory the fact that the use of artificial teeth is just a little over a hundred years old.

The first successful maker was Giuseppangelo Fonzi, an Italian dentist who started practice in Paris in 1798 and, thanks to his skillful treatment of Lucien Bonaparte, soon made his way. After years of experiment he discovered the substance from which artificial teeth are still made, and received the gold medal of the French Academy of Science. One of the earliest persons fitted with false teeth was the empress of Russia. After Waterloo Fonzi migrated to London, and then to Madrid, where Ferdinand VII of Spain, rewarded him with a yearly pension of a thousand ducats for a set of false teeth.

Music to Lure Fish.

Two Pennsylvania disciples of Izaak Walton have just invented a musical minnow for bass fishing. The new device is described as a wooden minnow, and instead of the usual spinner in front there is carved out the face of a pretty girl. In front of the face is a miniature electric light, the power for which is furnished by a dry battery carried in the pocket of the fisherman, to throw light on the bait which hangs on the under side.

The minnow is painted red, and within it is a tiny musical box, the playing of which is regulated by the fisherman before he casts his line. The inventors say they adopted the idea because they have found while fishing that bass are attracted by the ringing of a cow bell.—Evening Standard.

Widow's Three Tests.

A smart widow at a country house was telling the other day that there were three courses through which every woman should put a man before she married him. These were eating, laughing and kissing. "A man's laugh tells a lot," she said. "If it is hearty and merry he is good tempered; if loud and empty it means he lacks feeling. Beware of a greedy man. It will be a case of 'feed the brute' all the time." And, according to her, kissing was the most important test of all.

Took Prizes in Plowing.

A few days after the new farmer had purchased a horse from a thrifty Scot he returned in an angry mood. "You told me this horse had won half a dozen matches against some of the best horses in the country. He can't trot a mile in six minutes to save himself. You lied to me!" he denounced. "I didna he'r nae in plowin' matches he took sax prizes," calmly replied Sandy.

Caddie's Unfeeling Remarks Too Much for Tender Feelings of Dear Old Gentleman.

A dear old gentleman, who had only taken up the dear game very late in life, spent some months endeavoring, under the tuition of a professional and the care of a special caddie, to hit the ball. When he succeeded in doing so at all it was never more than a few yards, and every bunker on the course was his daily doom. Still his caddie, having an eye to the main chance, always encouraged him to think that he would soon be more a player, and the old man, with the hope that springs eternal even more in the hearts of golfers than in other people, firmly believed him. One day it happened that his special caddy was absent, and a ruffianly looking person appeared on the first tee with the old gentleman's clubs. He took his normal 14 shots to the first hole, to the unconcealed but unnoticed disgust of the caddie; but on the second tee the miracle happened, and the old boy for once hit a beauty.

"That was a good one, wasn't it?" he said, turning to the bearer of clubs.

"Good one?" retorted the ruffian, in tones of the bitterest contempt. "Why, I could play better than that with me left foot!"

This unexpected verdict so upset the poor old man that he walked straight back home, and has never touched a club since.

RANK HIGH IN SCHOLARSHIP

That Athletes Are Poor Students Is Denied by Former Professor in an Eastern College.

"That athletics are practiced in most colleges do not detract the attention of students from scholastic duties is abundantly testified to by college professors," remarked Dr. James Hinman, a former professor in one of the eastern colleges. Dr. Brinker, the president of Lehigh university, declared that the Lehigh football squad had averaged higher in scholastic standing than the students who did not participate in college athletics. Lehigh is not the only college in which this fact has been marked. Cornell for several years—and I have no doubt that it continues to show it—had football and baseball teams the members of which led their classes.

"Properly controlled athletics are as necessary to successful mental training as are professors. I presume there have been instances where members of college teams have failed in their examinations, and charges follow, as a matter of course, that these men are not genuine students. But the facts are so pronounced that the best men on the leading athletic teams in our greatest colleges are men of big mentality that the suggestion that colleges have to hire athletes falls in its beginning."

Woman's Work.

According to the last volume of the British census returns in the United Kingdom women have succeeded in establishing themselves in a number of industries where their presence is unexpected.

Several women are paper-hangers and whitewashers, and four are bricklayers—all of them widows. There is only one woman coachman. Three women appear under the heading of "clergymen, priests and ministers," and four are coalheavers.

Then there are 347 women "carmen" and wagoners, and 231 women blacksmiths and "strikers."

One woman occupies herself with making patent fuel and there are three women shipwrights, and five women "tramway car makers."

Finally, England and Wales can boast of 56 women carpenters and joiners, and 14 women masons. Of the latter 13 are widows.

What Interested Her.

Little Myrtle, the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Cargetts of the Salvation Army, was apparently intensely interested in a sermon by Col. Samuel Brengle, for many years a friend of the late Gen. William Booth at Salvation Army headquarters in West Fourteenth street. Her parents highly approved of this reverent attitude.

"You were greatly impressed by Colonel Brengle's speech, were you not, my dear?" said her proud parent after the meeting.

"Yes, papa," she answered enthusiastically. "I was wondering all the time he was talking how far his chin sank into his whiskers." Colonel Brengle is blessed with a particularly impressive hirsute adornment.—New York Tribune.

London's Modern Fire Brigade

The London fire brigade is rapidly becoming a completely motor equipped fire fighting organization. Today London possesses 87 motor appliances and two motor fire floats. It is now proposed to spend in the near future $500,000 in providing 53 motor escape vans, 43 electric escape vans, 94 petrol or petrol electric motor pumps, 27 motor turntable ladders, 11 motor lorries, 5 motor ladders, 15 motor cars, and a motor canteen van, or 249 new motor appliances. In three years horses will be unknown in the London fire brigade.

It's Best Anyway.

"I'm an optimist," said ex-Governor Sulzer at a banquet in New York. "I was an optimist before my impeachment. Then I lost my optimism temporarily.

"An optimist," the ex-governor added dreamily, "is a chap who doesn't know what's coming to him."

Separate the most nutritious part of the kernels of choicest white corn—

If you could cook this carefully selected part just as we cook it—

If you could cure, sweeten and salt it to get the same delicious, delicate flavor that we get—

If you could roll each separate bit, thin and ribbony, under 40 tons pressure—

If you could pass the flaky bits in at the top of the great oven 30 feet high, through which they would slowly move to the bottom and come out toasted to a golden brown---and all this, without being touched by hand---

Then most anyone could make his own

CLARK NAMED

cratic spell binders that the high cost of living would be reduced have not been carried out but in their stead we have a state of industrial depression which is rapidly becoming worse.

He said in effect that "the Republican party has always kept step with progress and its policies have brought about prosperity, while on the other hand the Democratic rule has always resulted in confusion and business disaster. The Democratic party on one hand is a party of uncertainties and apologies while on the other hand the Republican party inspires confidence, meets trying situations and above all appeals to the sober and intelligent vision of the people rather than their passions and prejudices.

"The trend of events indicates," he said, "that those who left the party are coming back, but this should not breed over confidence. Hard work is necessary to bring about a return of the old time majority."

In closing Mr. Clark urged the committeemen to get together for hard work this fall and explained at the opening of the campaign under the new rules the committee will be called together for any business that may come up. "If you take hold of the work gentlemen and work with the determination of winning the Republican party will be back in the old place and prosperity will again reign," was his closing declaration.

Attorney H. R Myers, candidate for the legislature ,spoke on the tariff and its effect on business. He first congratulated the committee on its selections of Mr. Clark as a chairman, whom he characterized as a true Republican Mr. Myers recited the history of the Cleveland administration with its soup houses and urged that the affairs of state be ta' en out of the hands of the Democrats. He stated that our government is at present in the hands of the south and that Pennsylvania has suffered to a greater extent through the new tariff than any other section.

Mr. Brown was next introduced by the chairman He stated that he first wished to thank the Republicans of the county for the splendid vote given him at the primaries. He stated that there exists a crisis in the affairs of the Republican party. Influences are at work lead by Theodore Roosevelt which say the old party must die. Division has permitted Democratic success and it is now time to unite.

Mr. Brown contrasted conditions in foreign countries with those in the United States and declared it is a question of wages. In Germany and Russia wages are from one to one-seventh the amounts paid in this country.

He recited the causes leading up to the formation of the Progressive party and stated that he hoped that if Mr. Roosevelt comes into this section this fall he will be asked why he did not have the method of representation in the national conventions changed in the convention of 1904 or 1908 when he absolutely controlled them. At both conventions such resolutions were offered but voted down at Mr. Roosevelt's command.

Mr. Brown concluded his address with a tribute to the Republican party and called upon all to work together in unity for its success this fall.

One of the closing transactions was the adoption of resolutions on the death of Henry Cooper of Eldersville.
